

Problem Statement:

Generation Z is being pushed out of homeownership and into a renter system that steals the chance to build wealth from families and hands it to big corporations, so if the government won't act then employers must step up with housing guarantees that give even the lowest-paid workers a fair shot at stability and long-term investment.